HEADQUARTERS MILITARY DEPARTMENT

INTRODUCTION

The Military Department is a State agency created by Section 250, Florida Statutes and composed of the military force provided for in the laws of the State of Florida. The Florida National Guard is provided for by Section 5, Article XIV of the Constitution, the Guard clause of the Article providing for the militia. The National Guard of the United States is provided for by Title 32, U. S. Code.

The Governor is Commander-in-Chief of the Florida National Guard. The Adjutant General is Chief of the Military Department and Commanding General of the Florida Army and Air National Guard. There is an Assistant Adjutant General who is also Assistant Adjutant General for Army, an Assistant Adjutant General for Air, and a general staff organization in the Headquarters. (See Appendix I for organizational chart.)

There are 698 full time employees, military and civilian, working either directly with the Military Department or units of the Florida National Guard. The salaries of these individuals are funded by the State of Florida or the Federal government. (See Appendix II)

MISSION

The mission of the Florida National Guard remained unchanged during the biennium. The Florida National Guard, both Army and Air, has a dual mission.

(1) A State mission, to provide military organizations trained and equipped to function when necessary in the protection of life and property, and in the preservation of peace, order, and the public safety, as directed by competent State authority; and,

(2) A Federal mission, as Reserve components of the Army and Air Force of the United States, to provide trained units and qualified individuals available for active duty in time of war or national emergency, or at such other times as the national security may require augmentation of the active forces.

SUMMARY

During the years 1963-1964, the Army National Guard experienced several changes in troop allocation, requiring statewide reorganization. The Florida Air National Guard likewise was reorganized in 1964. In spite of such reorganizations, training objectives have been reached and maintained; recruiting efforts have continued satisfactorily; and the Florida National Guard has maintained its national standard of unit proficiency. Continued utilization of the educational facilities offered by the regular establishment has contributed greatly to the branch and technical training of personnel. Yearly attendance at the Florida National Guard Officer Candidate School has been most gratifying, as is evidenced by the number of newly commissioned junior officers graduated during the biennium. Fiscal matters, both State and Federal, remain on a sound basis, and expansion of facilities remains in evidence. The Florida National Guard can well be proud of the great strides made during the biennium.

PROPOSED REORGANIZATION

During the latter part of calendar year 1964, the Department of the Army submitted to the Governors of the several States and their respective Adjutants General, a plan for the utilization of the State Military Headquarters for coordinating, planning and controlling operations in "Military Support of Civil Defense." This plan envisages that the State Adjutants General and their staffs will be given the mission of participating actively in pre-attack planning for military support of Civil Defense, and that the Adjutants General of the several States will exercise operational command of forces made available from all services and components, as designated by the ZI Army Commander concerned. This concept contemplates that the State Military Headquarters will become the primary focal point for military support of Civil Defense planning within its respective State.

At the writing of this report, the proposed plan has not been implemented. It is however, contemplated that planning will be finalized in January 1965, and that Headquarters, Military Department will be reorganized at that time to assume its new role of military support of Civil Defense.

ARMORY BOARD, STATE OF FLORIDA

AUTHORITY

The Armory Board, State of Florida, is established as provided by Section 250.40, Florida Statutes, with organization consisting of the Governor, The Adjutant General, the State Quartermaster, the General Officers of the Line, Group Commanders, Depot Commanders and the Senior Air Commander of the active Florida National Guard.

MISSION

The Armory Board is primarily concerned with the general supervision and control of real properties utilized by the Florida National Guard and, to this end, meets several times annually at the call of the Chairman or Vice Chairman, to give consideration to plans for construction, alteration, rental, maintenance and management of National Guard Armories, other facilities, and real properties utilized by the Florida National Guard.

In addition, the Armory Board is responsible for and controls forest management, mineral exploitation, game and fish propagation programs and the maintenance and improvement of the former Federal lands at Camp Blanding, subject to the approval of the U. S. Government.

POLICY

The National Guard is a joint effort of the Federal, State and local governments and, through this mutual support, the National Guard has taken its place as a major component in the defense of our Nation, State and local communities. It is the policy of the Armory Board that National Guard Armories be utilized by the citizenry of the community to the fullest extent possible, where such use is not to the detriment of the public interest and does not interfere materially with the primary use of armories for housing and training of the military units stationed therein. The Armory Board cooperates with the armed services, State agencies and organizations by making available facilities at Camp Blanding for use in training, rifle marksmanship, instruction, etc.

ARMORIES

GENERAL

Florida has fifty-one (51) National Guard Armories dispersed from Pensacola on the west to Jacksonville on the northeast to Homestead on the south. The present status of existing National Guard Armories and facilities in the State of Florida is listed in Appendix VI.

PAST ACCOMPLISHMENTS

During the biennium two new one-unit armories were constructed and occupied at Palmetto and Panama City. These are modern, well designed and attractive buildings which do much to enhance their surrounding communities. These two new armories house units previously occupying inadequate facilities which were returned to their former owners.

Construction of an additional supply room, vault and two offices at the Homestead Armory was necessitated by the reorganization of the Florida Army National Guard. This one unit armory now houses two firing batteries of Air Defense Artillery.

A new terrazzo floor was placed in the drill hall of the Fort Lauderdale Armory. This new floor replaces a wooden floor which had completely deteriorated.

The exterior walls of the Quincy Armory were completely refinished with a marble crete surface, as the old stucco had separated from the walls and was falling off. In addition, extensive painting was accomplished on the interior of the armory.

New modern restroom facilities were constructed in the Maxwell C. Snyder Armory, Jacksonville, which replace old, obsolete facilities.

Excess Quonset huts were secured from the active services during the biennium and erected on concrete bases for use of the units at Camp Blanding, Cocoa, Fort Pierce and Orlando. These Quonset huts supplement training and storage space at each location and have precluded the expense of construction of additional facilities.

In addition to the aforementioned major projects, numerous fencing, paving, repair and renovation projects have been accomplished during the biennium.

NAMING

During the biennium the Armory Board adopted a resolution for the naming of the new Panama City Armory. It was named "The Hiram W. Sperry Armory" in honor of Brigadier General Hiram W. Sperry, Retired, 1927-1960.

FUTURE PROGRAM

The present armories are considered generally adequate; however, several are becoming obsolete insofar as storage, classroom and outdoor training space are concerned. This is primarily due to reorganization of units, strength increases and vast improvements in armaments since these armories were constructed.

OTHER FACILITIES AND PROJECTS

STATE ARSENAL

The State Arsenal, which houses the Headquarters, Military Department, State of Florida, is one of the most historic landmarks in the Nation. The Arsenal has known three owners, the Spanish, the English and the Americans. In 1922 by Act of Congress this facility was donated to the State of Florida by the United States for military purposes. Normal maintenance and repairs are performed in such a manner as to preserve the historic aspects of this facility, insofar as is feasible.

AIR NATIONAL GUARD BASE

The Florida Air National Guard Base is located at Thomas Cole Imeson Airport in Jacksonville and is one of the finest and most up-to-date bases in the country. The facilities consist of a hangar, an alert shelter, a flight simulator, warehouses, administration buildings, ammunition assembly and check-out buildings, weapons calibration and rocket storage buildings and numerous other improvements. The facilities are valued at over $3,500,000.00 and were constructed entirely from Federal funds.

RANGES

National Guard Rifle Ranges are located throughout the State at Camp Blanding, Avon Park, Ocala Forest and Tallahassee. In addition there is an agreement with the Air Force whereby the range at MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa is utilized by the National Guard. All of these ranges are 25 meter; however, the known distance ranges at Camp Blanding are still maintained and competitive firing is conducted there frequently.

CAMP BLANDING

HISTORY

In 1939 the Armory Board purchased 30,000 acres in Clay County for use as a camp site for the Florida National Guard. Permanent warehouses, mess halls and latrines were constructed at that time. During World War II the Armory Board leased Camp Blanding to the War Department, who constructed a large cantonment area. Requiring more area for training, the War Department purchased an additional 40,000 acres contiguous to the State lands. After World War II the State lands were returned to the Armory Board and a right of entry onto the Federal lands was obtained. On 14 July 1954 Public Law 493 deeded the 40,000 acres of Federal land to the Armory Board with the stipulations that the lands be maintained as a military reservation and that a forest management program be instituted. Surplus revenue earned from this forestry program and from mining exploitation occurring on these former Federal lands is divided equally between the Armory Board and the Federal Government.

UTILIZATION

National Guard

Camp Blanding is utilized extensively by the Florida National Guard as a site for training consisting of field exercises, map problems, command post exercises and small arms firing.

The Combined Support Maintenance Shop, which performs a higher echelon of maintenance on Federal equipment, is located at Camp Blanding. In addition to its maintenance responsibility for Florida National Guard equipment, this shop is assigned the field maintenance mission for all vehicles and generators of Headquarters, U. S. Strike Command located at MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa.

The STATE MAINTENANCE OFFICE (near right) and the COMBINED SUPPORT MAINTENANCE SHOP area, at Camp Blanding. This activity covers approximately 25 acres.

The U. S. Property and Fiscal Officer has warehouse facilities located within the reservation where all Federal property for use of the Florida Army National Guard is received, stored and issued.

In 1961 the Florida Officer Candidate School was established at Camp Blanding. Numerous buildings have been completely renovated and made available for exclusive use of the school, including a Headquarters building, two classroom-study halls, eleven barracks, a kitchen-mess hall, four latrines, a dispensary and a storage building.

U. S. Army Reserve

On 1 June 1960 the Armory Board leased approximately 750 acres of land to the U. S. Army Reserve. This land provided a training area in the northeast section of the State, heretofore not available to the Reserve, for weekend assemblies, bivouacs, etc. Joint utilization by the Florida National Guard is stipulated in the lease.

U. S. Marine Corps Reserve

In August 1962 the Armory Board authorized the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve unit in Jacksonville to utilize Whitamore Lake for the operation of their amphibious tracked vehicles. A portion of the shore line of the lake was designated for ingress and egress, in order that damage to the lake and the shore line would not occur.

Other Services

The Reserve Officers Training Corps, U. S. Air Force, U. S. Navy, U. S. Naval Reserve, and U. S. Coast Guard utilize the small arms ranges at Camp Blanding through a maintenance agreement. During the biennium these other services utilized the ranges for an estimated 53,251 man days of firing.

Navy Bombing Range

The U. S. Atlantic Fleet, Fleet Air, Naval Air Station, continues to use a portion of Camp Blanding as an air-to-ground bombing range for the training of Naval pilots and, in addition, the Armory Board recently made available a small parcel of land for the installation of a radar scoring station some distance from the bombing range.

Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission

The 1956 agreement between the Armory Board and the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, whereby portions of Camp Blanding were opened to controlled public hunting, continues in effect and on 13 February 1964 the Armory Board entered into another agreement with the Commission, whereby four lakes in the southern portion of Camp Blanding were opened to controlled public fishing.

These agreements have furthered our relationship with the citizenry of Florida by providing public hunting and fishing areas with an abundance of game.

Clay County Development Authority

In 1959 the Armory Board entered into an agreement with the Clay County Development Authority (a State Agency), whereby a 600-acre tract of land on the southwesterly shore of Kingsley Lake was set aside for the development of a youth recreational area by the Clay County Development Authority. As of this printing, the Authority has made no improvements to the area.

School Boy Patrol

Since the summer of 1959 the Duval County Sheriff's Office has conducted a two weeks' encampment each summer for the Duval County School Boy Patrol. These encampments were made possible through an agreement between the Armory Board and the Sheriff of Duval County with several hundred boys in attendance each year.

Forest Management Operation

As stated previously, the Armory Board is required to maintain the Federal lands at Camp Blanding as a military reservation, implement a forest management program, and continue improvements. To this end, a continuous program of timber harvesting and replanting is conducted under the supervision of a professional forester. All replanting is accomplished by a random method, in order to maintain a forest usable for military training. Construction and maintenance of access roads, fencing and drainage structures continue as needed.

It is well to point out that the Forester employed by the Military Department at Camp Blanding was named the State's Outstanding Forester for the Year 1964 by the Florida Chapter of the Society of American Foresters.

Mining Operations

Subsequent to World War II, E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, in cooperation with the Bureau of Mines, discovered a concentration of ilmenite on the lands at Camp Blanding. Ilmenite is a heavy mineral used in the manufacture of white pigment for the color and paint industries. In addition to ilmenite, other heavy minerals, such as staurolite and zircon, were found in commercially usable quantities. Since December 1947 du Pont has commercially mined these minerals in what is known as the "Trail Ridge Mine," which was located on the State lands at Camp Blanding. In 1955 du Pont commenced operation of the Highlands Mine on the former Federal lands at Camp Blanding. The royalty derived from the Highlands Mine is divided equally between the Armory Board and the U. S. Government and, until recently, the royalty derived from the Trail Ridge Mine went entirely to the Armory Board.

In August 1964 the State lands were completely mined out and the Trail Ridge Mine moved into former Federal lands, which means that future royalties from this mine will be divided equally between the Armory Board and the U. S. Government. It is anticipated that in 1968 the Highlands Mine will leave Camp Blanding altogether, due to previous mining commitments on land adjacent to Camp Blanding.

Due to the severe decrease in revenue realized by the loss of one mine entirely and one-half the revenue from the other, the Armory Board is forced to turn to other sources of income to maintain its support of National Guard facilities throughout the State.

During the period 1 January 1963 through 31 December 1964 340,389 tons of ilmenite, 97,769 tons of staurolite and 88,221 tons of zircon were removed from Camp Blanding by du Pont.

CONSTRUCTION

Construction during the biennium includes a $21,210.00 contract for alterations and additions to the Combined Support Maintenance Shop which was funded entirely by Federal Funds.

STATE FUNDS

APPROPRIATED FUNDS

Disbursements of General Revenue Funds are based on the appropriation made by the Florida State Legislature each biennium.

ARMORY BOARD TRUST FUND

The Armory Board Trust Fund is established under the provisions of Chapter 250.41, Florida Statutes. This fund is used for the management, maintenance and operation of Armory Board properties, exclusive of the former Federal lands at Camp Blanding. Income is derived from mining royalties, sale of timber products, sale of salvaged material and the division of revenue from the Camp Blanding Management Fund. As pointed out before, mining royalties ceased in August 1964 due to the moving of the Trail Ridge Mine from State lands.

CAMP BLANDING MANAGEMENT FUND

The Camp Blanding Management Fund is established under the provisions of Chapter 250.41, Florida Statutes, and an agreement between the Armory Board, State of Florida, and the United States of America dated 24 January 1955. This agreement is required by Public Law 493, 83rd Congress, approved 14 July 1954 (68 Statute 474). All expenditures for management, maintenance and operation of the former Federal lands require approval of the U. S. District Engineer, who was appointed representative of the Secretary of the Army following the passage of Public Law 493. Income to this fund is derived from mining royalties and sale of timber products, the net of which is annually divided equally between the Armory Board and the United States Government.

SERVICE CONTRACTS

The Military Department has several service contracts with the United States Government, whereby the Armory Board is reimbursed seventy-five percent of the expenses of maintenance and operation of certain facilities of the Florida National Guard. These facilities include the Air National Guard Base, eighteen (18) organizational maintenance shops, portions of the State Arsenal and portions of Camp Blanding.

DISBURSEMENTS AND BUDGETS

Disbursements for the past biennium and budgets for the coming biennium are reflected in Appendix XV.

FAITHFUL PERFORMANCE BOND

The Military Department has a Public Employees Faithful Performance Blanket Position Bond in the sum of $2,500.00 for all National Guard personnel responsible for property and/or funds and all employees of the Department not otherwise required by law to be bonded. These individuals remain covered by bond until cleared of all property and funds after being terminated from position.

VEHICLE LIABILITY INSURANCE

All Military Department vehicles are covered by vehicle liability insurance in the amount of $10,000/20,000 bodily injury and $5,000 property damage. In addition, National Guard vehicles utilized for State activities incident to emergencies, etc., are covered by this policy. Premium rates are established on a per mile driven basis.

WORKMAN'S COMPENSATION INSURANCE

Until recently the Military Department carried Workman's Compensation Insurance on employees paid from the Armory Board Trust Fund and the Camp Blanding Management Fund and was a self-insurer for personnel paid from General Revenue. A fatal injury involving a Department employee in the pursuit of his official duties and the subsequent cost to the Department for benefits due his beneficiaries pointed up to this Department the financial danger of being a self-insurer. On 1 July 1964 this Department undertook Workman's Compensation on all employees of the Department and is no longer in the self-insurer business.

The total expenditures for benefits due the survivors of the aforementioned employee will amount to $14,700 over a seven year period. In addition to this claim, twenty-three claims were submitted to the insurance carrier and five claims in the amount of $132.70 were paid as self-insuror for the biennium.

DATA PROCESSING

The Military Department, as are many other agencies, is involved in a necessary and extensive reporting system. Reports are received, correlated, consolidated and forwarded as required. Manual handling is time-consuming and subject to error. As a rapid and accurate means of obtaining and furnishing information became increasingly important, the Military Department turned to data processing.

The 1961 Legislature approved the expenditure of funds and on 1 July 1962 the necessary equipment and supplies were available and the Data Processing Section was established with International Business Machine Series 50 equipment.

During the first six months of operation, 70% of the planned programs to be converted were implemented. There are presently twenty-six major programs with more than 100,000 active punch cards maintained. New programs continue to be adapted to data processing, as necessary.

ADMINISTRATION

Administrative and staff services were provided to the Headquarters and the units of the Florida National Guard. These services included public affairs, records administration, mail management, publications, reproductions, issuing awards and trophies, communications, and security files.

In addition to their regularly assigned duties, the stenographers/typists and secretaries supported the specialized administrative projects required during the biennium. This cooperative liaison within the Headquarters has produced a more efficient and effective utilization of manpower.

RECORDS MANAGEMENT

During this period, a Library was established in the Headquarters. It is devoted to books dealing with historical and current affairs, and includes a collection of specialized volumes for reference and research purposes.

A Records Administration Program for the Florida National Guard was established to insure uniform procedures governing maintenance and disposition of records.

The microfilming of special orders, morning reports and other records continued to be programed and accomplished during the bien-nium. This reduced the storage space required for permanent records.

The Central Library of all Army Regulations and National Guard Regulations which govern the operation of the Florida National Guard, was improved to provide more comprehensive reference records.

The Central Files of the Headquarters containing policies governing the Florida National Guard, including security files, was thoroughly screened to eliminate obsolete records.

PUBLICATIONS

Emphasis has been placed on overcoming publication shortages within units. Reorganization posed special problems brought about by changing missions and equipment. In a number of instances, publications were transferred between units. To assist the units, this transfer was administered by this Headquarters.

Through the efforts of this Headquarters, the procedure of requisitioning Army publications from the Department of the Army was changed. The former method did not lend itself to an even flow of work or enable this Headquarters to properly fill unit requirements. The new procedure permits this Headquarters to submit requisitions to the various Army Publication Depots on a daily basis, thus meeting the requirements of the units more efficiently. In addition, a stock of forms and publications needed for rapid mobilization, into Federal service, was established both in this Headquarters and at unit level.

REPRODUCTIONS

To provide efficient and economical service to the Headquarters, an effective program was implemented in the reproduction of Headquarters, Military Department and/or Florida National Guard circulars, bulletins, form letters, special orders, general orders, standard operating procedures, and Armory construction contracts. This same program was applied to the operation of Xerograph process of master offset plates for multilith reproduction and xerocopies of legal documents, official correspondence and drawings.

COMMUNICATIONS

The Defense Communication Automatic Voice Switching Network (AUTOVON), a world-wide, general purpose, direct dialing system, was installed in the Headquarters, Military Department. AUTOVON provides a capability for this Headquarters to communicate with other military installations within the net. This system has improved communications and reduced operational costs.

The teletype relay system located in Headquarters, Third US Army, Fort McPherson (Atlanta), Georgia, serving this Headquarters, was transferred to US Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Florida. This permits more expeditious and economic transmission of messages.

Due to the impact of the railroad strike and incident to the reorganization of the Florida Army National Guard, the postal service provided by the Headquarters required a complete change in procedure. This was accomplished in cooperation with the US Post Office Department.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Press, radio and television promotion of the National Guard's program and activities during the biennium has been effected through the full cooperation of the majority of the State's news media. They have willingly accepted and publicized hundreds of news stories relative to Guard activities, in addition to using routine recruiting and public service material.

To maintain a high level of morale and promote esprit de corps, a four page monthly insert in "The National Guardsman" is utilized. Material for the "Florida Edition" is submitted by the units monthly. This magazine has a circulation of more than 2,000, primarily to officers and enlisted men of the Florida National Guard.

An illustrated, narrative briefing of the organization, responsibilities, and mission of the Florida National Guard was developed to acquaint the citizens of Florida with their National Guard. Approximately 2,500 visitors to the Headquarters, members of civic organizations throughout the State, and other individuals have received this briefing.

A beauty contest to choose Miss Florida National Guard is conducted annually as a vehicle to generate National Guard publicity and stimulate favorable community relations. Contestants are sponsored by battalions and special groups of the Florida National Guard. The beauty contest is conducted through the courtesy of a Florida tourist attraction. The queen of the 2nd Battle Group, 211th Infantry was chosen to be Miss Florida National Guard in 1963. The queen of the 2nd Howitzer Battalion, 116th Artillery reigned as Miss Florida National Guard of 1964.

A portion of the State Arsenal (Headquarters, Military Department) dates back to the 16th century when it was the site of a Franciscan monastery. The military reservation's unique and rich history definately contributes to, and complements, the background of the State and St. Augustine—the Nation's oldest city. Therefore, recognizing its inherent obligation to acquaint the general public with this antiquity and historic significance, the Florida National Guard Historical Board was created to assist the Adjutant General in this endeavor. Under the aegis of this board, the following projects were accomplished.

A post card, depicting the military reservation with a brief history, was produced through the cooperation of a local distributor.

A booklet recording the history of the State Arsenal (St. Francis Barracks) and military reservation was compiled, illustrated with rare old prints and photographs of the buildings. Publication of this booklet was financed by the National Guard Officers Association of Florida.

The Military Department, in cooperation with the Florida Development Commission and a television station, produced a film, "Sand and The Sentinel," which tells the story of the Headquarters, Military Department; founding of St. Augustine; and the early military history of Florida. This film was distributed to State and national television stations for public viewing, and to schools of Florida. A copy is preserved in the Florida Archives, Florida State University. A second film, "Stripes to Bars," acquainted the public with the Florida National Guard Officer Candidate School at Camp Blanding.

Plans were made for the establishment of a military museum and archives, aptly located in the former monastery cells. The museum, itself, will endeavor to tell the story of the Florida National Guard and militia from territorial days to the present.

The Florida National Guard and militia have a long and colorful history. Realizing that this history is not documented or compiled for easy reference, arrangements have been made, in cooperation with the Graduate School of Florida State University, to have a graduate student write an authentic history of the Florida National Guard and the early militia. This project is now nearing completion.

STATEMENTS OF SERVICE

The Military Department has custody of available records of the soldiers of Florida. These records include Muster Rolls of the Indian Wars of 1835, Muster Rolls of the Florida Militia and Florida National Guard since 1835, and Rolls of the Florida troops mustered into the Confederate Forces and Union Forces in the War Between the States (Civil War), the Spanish American War, the Mexican Border Incident, World War I, World War II, the Korean Emergency, and the Berlin Crisis. A card record is maintained for each individual who entered World War I from the State of Florida, whether by enlistment, induction through Selective Service, or induction with the Florida National Guard. In addition, an individual file folder, containing copies of all pertinent orders and personnel documents, is retained for each individual who has ever been a member of the Florida National Guard (Army and Air). The individual folders for current members are separated from the folders of former members and are maintained current at all times. These records occupy approximately 1,000 feet of shelf filing space.

Requests for Statements of Service and information generally fall into two broad categories. The majority of requests in the first category are for documentary evidence to establish eligibility for some type of benefit such as: Federal or State military retirement benefits; birth date and/or active Federal service for Social Security benefits; increased military longevity pay for former service; burial in a National Cemetery or government furnished grave marker; or hospitalization or other financial benefits through the Veterans Administration. The second category pertains to requests in the interest of genealogy or history and, for the most part, are applicable to records prior to 1900.

The number of Statements of Service furnished during the period of this report was 687 for fiscal year 1963, and 610 for fiscal year 1964.

INTER-SERVICE AGREEMENTS

Under current policies of the Federal Government, the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, and the Reserve Forces, including the National Guard, furnish mutual logistical support on a reimbursable basis, whenever such support is requested and is within the capability of the requested agency. This policy is of appreciable value to the taxpayer in that it reduces duplication of supply and maintenance facilities. In keeping with this policy, the Florida National Guard has entered into a number of inter-service agreements during the biennium. These agreements go beyond the traditional support furnished by the active services to the National Guard in that they also include support to the active forces by the National Guard. This State currently has working agreements with Fort Stewart, Georgia; Jacksonville Naval Air Station; Orlando Air Force Base; Patrick Air Force Base; Homestead Air Force Base; MacDill Air Force Base; United States Strike Command; Tyndall Air Force Base; Eglin Air Force Base; Pensacola Naval Air Station; and the IV US Army Corps. Agreements with each of the above activities are tailor made; and include such support to the National Guard as repair of aircraft, calibration of instruments, supply of medical items, supply of subsistence, and laundry service. Florida National Guard return support includes supply of gasoline within the State to active Army, the US Army Reserve, US Air Force Reserve, US Marine Corps Reserve, and the Reserve Officers Training Corps, along with complete responsibility for repair of vehicles, weapons, and other items of the United States Strike Command; and the periodic temporary loan of vehicles, weapons, and other equipment to Strike Command, the active Army, the USAR, and the USMCR for special training missions.

TECHNICIANS

The Florida National Guard employs both Army and Air National Guard technicians. These technicians are specialists in the field of administration, finance, accounting, supply and maintenance. Except for a few female employees, they are also required to be military members of the various organizations and units to which assigned.

During this biennium, a total of 511 technicians were authorized, 304 Army Guard and 207 Air Guard. Employment of these technicians is supported by the Federal Government. The annual Federal budget authorized the Florida National Guard for these individuals amounted to $3,848,448.00.

During this report period, group health, income replacement and life insurance programs have been initiated for the welfare of the technicians.

Statistical data reflecting assignment of technicians and expenditures for this purpose during 1963 and 1964 are shown in Appendix II & XVI.

FLORIDA NATIONAL GUARD OFFICER CANDIDATE SCHOOL

The Florida National Guard Officer Candidate School was established in March 1961 by the Adjutant General, State of Florida. Adequate facilities were made available at Camp Blanding to start a yearly class of 50 candidates. These facilities have since been expanded.

In July 1961, a class of 49 candidates reported for the first two-weeks ACDUTRA (Active Duty for Training) period. Of this number, 24 candidates were graduated. The Class of 1963 started with an enrollment of 79 candidates and graduated 45. The Class of 1964 graduated 61 from an initial enrollment of 118 candidates, and the Class of 1965 was started with 89 enrolled candidates.

Following the graduation of the Class of 1964, the Florida National Guard Officer Candidate School reflected an enrollment of 335 candidates, with 130 successful graduates who have been commissioned Second Lieutenants in the Florida Army National Guard and Reserve of the Army of the United States. These 130 officers constitute 20% of the total assigned officer strength of the Florida Army National Guard. The OCS has become the primary source of junior officers for the Florida Army National Guard.

The school staff, faculty and cadre consists of 24 officers and 23 enlisted men of the Florida National Guard. The school is patterned closely after the Infantry Officer Candidate School at Fort Benning, Georgia. The Department of Non-Resident Instruction at Fort Benning furnishes the majority of the instructional material used at the school. Completed test papers are graded at the Infantry School.

Successful completion of the Florida National Guard Officer Candidate Course encompasses a full year of study and training. It starts with a two-weeks training period, in lieu of attending Annual Field Training with the candidate's parent unit one summer; attending eight weekend drill periods during the following fall, winter and spring months; and returning for a final two-weeks training period the following summer.

Officer Candidates of the Florida National Guard Officer Candidate School attend class in the field at Camp Blanding, Fla.

In addition, 4 enlisted men and 2-2½ ton trucks from the 146th Signal Battalion transported 7,200 pounds of food from the American Red Cross warehouse in Jacksonville to Cedar Keys. This mercy mission required 14 hours.

Members of the 146th Signal Battalion provided security for President Lyndon B. Johnson during his visit to the Jacksonville Beach area to personally survey the disaster area.

Hurricane Dora tore into northeast Florida on 9 September 1964, with 110 MPH winds, and moved inland across the northern part of the State. The extensive flooding was caused by torrential rains and excessively high winds which accompanied this unpredictable, destructive tropical storm. Hurricane Dora left more than $200,000,000 damage in her wake.

SPECIAL ASSIGNMENTS

Special assignments have been performed by Florida National Guard troops in support of community, State and national activities. This duty is on a voluntary basis. These assignments are generally performed during non-duty hours, weekends and holidays. The devotion to duty demonstrated by these Florida National Guardsmen is commendable.

The most outstanding missions of this type performed by Florida National Guardsmen during the biennium were:

11 March 1963: Troops of the Post of St. Augustine and the 1st Howitzer Battalion, 116th Artillery (Tampa and vicinity)—Honors and ceremonies for the then Vice President Lyndon B. For details on composition of teams and winners for 1963 and 1964 see Appendix XI.

ARMY NATIONAL GUARD

Organizational changes of major importance during the biennium were the change in troop allotment and state wide reorganization of 15 February 1963, at which time the previously allotted elements of the 51st Infantry Division, shared with the State of South Carolina, and the 48th Armored Division, shared with the State of Georgia, were withdrawn from the troop allotment to the State of Florida. In their place, singular command type structures were authorized, and for the first time in its history the Florida National Guard was completely self-contained within the State. Under this reorganization, the Florida Army National Guard experienced an increase in strength, both enlisted and officer. It eliminated rotating top grades between States, enabled Florida to promote all the officers selected for mandatory promotion under the Reserve Officer Personnel Act, and to promote a number of officers who had not yet reached maximum service in grade. This reorganization gained Florida 1 General, 3 Colonel, 17 Lt. Colonel, 16 Major, 10 Captain, and a number of senior NCO positions.

Following the reorganization of 15 February 1963, only minor additional changes were made in the troop structure during the remainder of the year. On 1 March 1964, another reorganization was experienced. Although smaller in scope, it improved the Florida troop basis by rounding out needed support elements, and netted an additional increase in authorized strength, adding 9 Major, 19 Captain and 8 Lieutenant positions. This, in effect, has delayed the full impact of ROPA actions upon officers of our State for approximately four years. The present troop structure is well balanced and contains the proper type units to provide a self-supporting State and/or Federal Force. (See Appendix III.)

STRENGTH

An over-all strength, nationwide, of 400,000 was provided for the Army National Guard during fiscal years 1963 and 1964. Florida entered fiscal year 1963 with a ceiling strength of 7,584. As a result of two major reorganizations and several minor reorganizations (See Part III, Appendix VII), Florida ended fiscal year 1964 with an authorized priority aggregate strength ceiling of 7,965.

The six units of the Florida Army National Guard which entered active Federal military duty in October 1961 in connection with the Berlin Crisis, were released from active duty and reverted to state control during August 1962. As the result of earlier discharge, election to remain on active duty, or change of residence outside the state, 76 officers and men did not return with their units. During the Berlin Crisis all enlistments expiring between 1 October 1961 and 30 June 1962 were automatically extended for one year. The National Guard Bureau authorized early separation for those whose enlistment had been extended so that all could elect to be separated by 31 December 1962. This was changed during October so that all extended enlistments could be terminated by 31 October 1962 unless the individual volunteered to serve out the remaining period of enlistment. The aftermath of the Berlin Crisis, together with the provisions for early release, resulted in a steady decline in strength from 7,477 at the end of August 1962 to 6,957 at the end of May 1963.

For many years the National Guard had a standard enlistment period of three years for initial enlistment. Reenlistments could be accomplished for one, two, or three years. One and two year reenlistments could be extended for a total period not to exceed three years. Effective 1 December 1962 non-prior service personnel were required to enlist in the Army National Guard for six years, which period coincided with the Reserve obligation incurred by all non-prior service personnel upon their initial enlistment. Initially prior service personnel with a remaining Reserve obligation were required to enlist for a period not less than their remaining Reserve obligation. Prior service personnel without a Reserve obligation were permitted to enlist for one or more years. This was changed to provide that prior service personnel, with or without a remaining Reserve obligation, were permitted to enlist for any period not less than one year nor extending beyond age 60. Further, the age old requirement that retention beyond the expiration date of the enlistment required a discharge with immediate reenlistment was discontinued effective 1 December 1962. Any enlistment could be extended at any time for a period not less than one year nor beyond age 60. There is no limit on the number of extensions that may be executed in connection with a single enlistment contract.

Mental standards for enlistment in the Army National Guard were raised to equal those of the active Army effective 26 November 1962. Prior service personnel must have attained an Armed Forces Qualification Test (AFQT) score of 21 or higher to be eligible for enlistment or reenlistment. Non-prior service personnel must attain an AFQT score of 31 or higher to be enlisted without further testing. Non-prior service personnel who attain a score between 21 and 30 inclusive must be at least a high school graduate and be tested with the Army Qualification Battery Test (AQB) and attain a score of 90 or higher in at least three aptitude areas to be eligible for enlistment. Effective March 1963, AQB Testing became mandatory for non-prior service personnel scoring 31 or higher on their AFQT. Such testing is required no later than 60 days after enlistment or prior to entry on initial period of active duty for training.

Prior to fiscal year 1964 each state was assigned a maximum authorized or ceiling strength which could not be exceeded. Individual units within the State were authorized to exceed their priority aggregate strength provided 100% TOE strength was not attained. This provided considerable flexibility within the State for maintaining the authorized strength for the State. It permitted the units in areas where recruiting was good to compensate for low strength units in areas where recruiting was a problem. This flexibility in maintenance of strength was discontinued 30 April 1964 by the National Guard Bureau pursuant to directives from The Department of Defense and The Department of the Army. On and after 1 May 1964, no unit was permitted to exceed its authorized priority aggregate strength, except that units, which were a part of a mobilization entity, were authorized to exceed their priority aggregate strength by not more than 10%, provided that the mobilization entity as a whole did not exceed its priority aggregate strength. This rigid strength control at unit level required numerous transfers of personnel between units during the latter part of April 1964 to meet the strength requirements as of 1 May 1964. The turbulence created by these forced transfers of personnel resulted in a loss in strength for the balance of the fiscal year. During the period 1 June 1963 through 31 March 1964, the Army Guard strength had increased from 6,957 to 7,446. The rigid strength control is the major factor involved in the Florida Army National Guard decline in strength to 7,398 in April; 7,312 in May; and 7,238 for 30 June 1964, the close of fiscal year 1964.

Appendix VII contains a summary of strength, and personnel gains and losses by source during 1963 and 1964. The total gain of 8,593 was 2,317 more than experienced during the immediate preceding two year period. In spite of this increase in gains, losses during the current biennium resulted in a net loss of 37 for the period 1 July 1962 to 30 June 1964. In comparing this biennium with the preceding biennial period, this represents an increase of 36.9% in the number of gains and 33.5% increase in the number of losses.

RESERVE OFFICER PERSONNEL ACT OF 1954

During the period 1 July 1962 to 30 June 1964, the Reserve Officer Personnel Act of 1954 (ROPA) remained unchanged insofar as the provisions for mandatory elimination and mandatory promotion consideration were concerned. An administrative change was made in regard to the selection boards to consider Captains for promotion to Major, and Majors for promotion to Lieutenant Colonel. Originally Army National Guard Lieutenants, Captains, and Majors were considered by selection boards appointed for each state by the Army Commander. These boards consisted of an officer on active duty (a member of the U. S. Army Advisor Group) and three Army National Guard officers of the state. In February 1963 this was changed to provide that boards appointed by the Army Commander would consider First Lieutenants only. Thereafter Captains and Majors were considered by Reserve Selection Boards convened at Headquarters, Department of the Army. It remained the responsibility of the State Adjutants General to furnish to the appropriate selection board lists of officers to be considered together with information as to status and military educational qualifications of each officer.

The potential loss of First Lieutenants as a result of selection for promotion to Captain without corresponding Captain position vacancies led to three regulatory exceptions for the retention and promotion of the First Lieutenants after selection by a Reserve of the Army Selection Board. These exceptions are:

Army aviators in the grade of First Lieutenant who are occupying rated lieutenant positions, upon selection by Reserve of the Army Selection Board, may be promoted to the grade of Captain without change of assignment, provided all other TOE positions in the unit in the grade of Captain and above are occupied.

First Lieutenants assigned to Special Forces units, upon selection by a Reserve of the Army Selection Board, may be promoted to Captain without change of assignment provided they possess a current parachutist rating, have completed or are undergoing Special Forces training, and all other TOE positions in the unit in the grade of Captain and above are occupied.

First Lieutenants may be promoted to the grade of Captain upon expiration of their three year declination period without change of assignment provided qualified Lieutenants are not available, and all other TOE positions in the unit in the grade of Captain and above are occupied. A Captain promoted under this provision must be removed from the Lieutenant position when a qualified Lieutenant becomes available for assignment.

General officer and field grade officer positions gained as the result of reorganizations during fiscal year 1963 and 1964 enabled 1 promotion to general officer grade, 5 promotions to Colonel, 23 promotions to Lieutenant Colonel, 45 promotions to Major, and 76 promotions to Captain. The additional position vacancies permitted the promotion of the majority of the officers serving under the three year declination. On 31 December 1962, with 105 officers having been selected for promotion, 60 were serving under the three year declination. On 30 June 1964, after a total of 169 officers had been selected for promotion, only 13 declinations remained in effect. The vacancies also permitted the promotion of a number of officers who had not yet been considered by the Reserve of the Army Selection Board. In addition to practically eliminating declinations of mandatory promotion, these positions permitted the promotion of several senior field grade officers who would otherwise have been eliminated by the total years of service and time in grade provisions of ROPA. The promotion of these well qualified officers permit their retention and the utilization of their knowledge and experience for up to five additional years. As the result of the promotions only four officers, as indicated in Appendix VIII were affected by the mandatory elimination provisions of ROPA during this report period.

The results of the selection boards convened during this reporting period are indicated in Appendix VIII. Only 84 officers were considered for mandatory promotion during the reporting period, whereas 217 officers were considered during the period 1 July 1960 to 30 June 1962. Relatively few officers will be considered for mandatory promotion during the next two years. However, thereafter the number to be considered each year will gradually increase until 1970 when the officers promoted in 1963 will be subject to mandatory consideration.

FLORIDA ARMY NATIONAL GUARD FIELD GRADE OFFICER SELECTION BOARD

The Florida Army National Guard Field Grade Officer Selection Board was established in October 1963 to insure that every officer who is qualified for assignment to a higher grade position is considered for each higher grade vacancy that may occur. The Selection Board is composed of: Deputy Commander, 55th Command Headquarters, Divisional-President; Commanding General, 53rd Armored Brigade; Commanding Officers of 163rd Artillery Group, 164th Artillery Group, 260th Engineer Group, 337th Signal Depot; and Recorder, from Headquarters, Military Department, State of Florida (without vote).

The Selection Board meets quarterly and at such other times as may be designated by the President. At each meeting the board considers all eligible officers for assignment to existing vacancies and known future vacancies in the field grade positions. To be eligible for consideration the officer must meet all regulatory requirements for promotion at the time of the meeting of the Selection Board. Eligible officers are considered on the basis of seniority. The Board considers such factors as the officer's performance, abilities, availability for attendance at training assemblies in the new assignment, and officer's desires where a change in branch may be involved. The recommendations of the Selection Board are furnished the Commanding General, 55th Command Headquarters, Divisional for his consideration and recommendation prior to forwarding to the Adjutant General for final approval. During the period of this report the Selection Board met four times and selected 19 Captains for assignment to Major positions and 11 Majors for assignment to Lieutenant Colonel positions.

ARMY NATIONAL GUARD TRAINING

The training program for the Florida Army National Guard is conducted in accordance with the criteria prescribed for Reserve Components of the Army by the United States Continental Army Command, in coordination with the National Guard Bureau. The Commanding General, Third United States Army has the responsibility for coordination, support and supervision of prescribed training. Standards for training are established by Department of the Army, and the performance of each unit is evaluated by a board of active Army officers during the Annual Field Training (AFT) period.

Training is classified in four general phases. The first two phases, Basic Combat Training (BCT) and Advanced Individual Training (AIT), received in succession, are designed to concentrate on the development of the basic skills and techniques required of the individual in the performance of duties which he will be assigned. Upon successful completion of AIT the individual is assigned a Military Occupational Specialty Code (MOS), which denotes qualification to perform the duties of his particular job assignment.

All personnel entering the Florida Army National Guard who have no prior service receive the first two phases of training during a period of not less than four months active duty training conducted at an Active Army Training Center. This program, known as The Reserve Component Enlisted Training Program (REP 63), became effective in October 1963. It replaced the RFA Program which was in effect from 1955 through the first nine months of the period covered by this report. The old program required six months active duty training. The number of Florida Guardsmen who completed their individual training through the RFA Program and the REP Program is shown in Appendix XIII.

Other personnel receive training for higher skill levels within their assigned field or receive training in new fields through attendance at Army Service Schools and by enrollment in Army Extension Courses. This program is an expansion of the Advanced Individual Training phase.

The third phase of training, Basic Unit Training (BUT), is conducted locally by all units in accordance with the Army Training Program appropriate to each unit. The purpose of training during this phase is to develop effective, well coordinated sections, teams and small units which are composed of members who have learned their particular skills and techniques during the individual training phase.

Finally, the Advanced Unit Training (AUT) phase is designed to provide practice in the employment of unit techniques, to develop unit operating procedures, and to furnish command and staff training in the conduct of combined arms operations.

The objective of the overall training effort is to improve the readiness of all units to mobilize and promptly initiate a post mobilization training program to meet deployment schedules. Toward this end maximum progression to higher levels of training, even beyond those objectives stated below, is encouraged consistent with strength, training equipment, facilities and attained proficiency. The goal for which Immediate Reserve (formerly priority I and II) units strive is that level of training within the prescribed Army Training Program (ATP) which will permit completion of the ATP in the shortest time possible following mobilization. The minimum goal for Reinforcing Reserve (formerly priority III) units is establishment of a well trained base capable of receiving filler personnel and equipment in order to initiate post mobilization ATP unit training on an accelerated basis. Both Immediate and Reinforcing Reserve units have a concurrent goal to attain maximum capability for self-sufficiency.

The Army training program objectives to be achieved by Reserve Component units are as follows:

Immediate Reserve (non-divisional units).

Infantry and Armor: To complete company level training to include successful completion of the company Army Training Test.

Artillery: To train at battalion level after successful completion of the battery Army Training Test.

Other units (Technical and Administrative): To train at the unit level of training determined by The Adjutant General, as delegated by the Army Commander.

Reinforcing Reserve (non-divisional units).

Infantry and Armor: To complete platoon level training to include successful completion of the platoon Army Training Test.

Artillery: To complete battery level training.

Other units (Technical and Administrative): Same as for Immediate Reserve.

At the conclusion of Annual Field Training in August 1964, 28 units were conducting training in AIT phase. The remaining units had attained basic training level.

Prior to reorganization all units were conducting Basic Unit Training. Due to the extent of change in type of unit and equipment from the old unit to the new, it was necessary in many units to initiate advanced individual training in order to qualify personnel in the proper MOS of their new duty assignment. Under these conditions, with AIT as the primary program, training is intensified in order to commence basic unit training as soon as possible. Generally, effective unit training may be initiated when 75% of assigned strength is MOS qualified.

55TH COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, DIVISIONAL

Upon reorganization of Florida Army National Guard in February 1963, 55th Command Headquarters, Divisional was delegated responsibility by The Adjutant General for supervision and coordination of training for all the separate non-divisional organizations and units, which comprise the troop allotment within the state. (Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, Florida Army National Guard; 107th Public Information Detachment; and Florida National Guard Officer Candidate School remain directly under the Adjutant General's Headquarters for training supervision.) This delegation of responsibility provides an intermediate headquarters with a staff capable of providing necessary planning and supervision for training quite similar to conditions which exist for a division with its organic elements. 55th Command Headquarters, Divisional in the execution of its responsibility provides supplemental directives and guidance to the separate commands and units for implementation of training requirements established by those higher commands previously mentioned and the Adjutant General's headquarters.

Location and dates of Annual Field Training periods during 1963 and 1964 are shown in Appendix XII. Attendance at these training periods for each of the years respectively was 5815 and 5419. The 1963 training period represented the first time in the history of the Florida Army National Guard that all units conducted Annual Field Training at the same location at the same time. In 1964 it was more appropriate for three units to conduct training at separate locations due to their requirements for certain special equipment and facilities.

Guardsmen of the 260th Engineer Group erect pontoon bridge during Annual Field Training at Fort Stewart, Georgia.

All units immediately undertook to establish themselves in training for their newly assigned missions upon reorganization. A resume of their performance during Annual Field Training for this reporting period is as follows:

	1963	1964
Average Score, AFT Performance (all units)	93.31%	95.20%
High Score, Company/Battery/Headquarters Detachment Level
622d Ordnance Company	95.64%

107th Public Information Detachment	94.14%
489th Medical Detachment (KI)	(Tied)	100.00%
490th Medical Detachment (KI)
High Average Battalion Score (All organic units)
2d Howitzer Battalion (105) 116th Arty	94.08%
1st Howitzer Battalion (155) 116th Arty	(Tied)	96.96%
1st Battalion 124th Infantry

Total Number SUPERIOR Training Ratings received	5	48
Total Number EXCELLENT Training Ratings received	74	33
Units in BUT level	45	53
Units in AIT level	34	28

A steady progression in level of training and standard of performance has been realized during this biennium, as evidenced by the above statistical data. Through demonstrated enthusiasm and performance, commanders and staffs at each echelon and the individual members of the Florida Army National Guard have shown that they are prepared to carry out their State and Federal missions.

INITIAL ACTIVE DUTY FOR TRAINING PROGRAM

The regulations implementing the Reserve Forces Act of 1955 required that non-prior service personnel, as a condition for enlistment in the Army National Guard, must enter six months active duty for training within 120 days after date of enlistment. An exception was made so that high school students could be deferred from entry into active duty for not more than one year, until they cease to satisfactorily pursue such high school course, graduate, or attain age 20, whichever is the earlier. This provided an inflexible six months period of initial active duty for training for all non-prior service personnel regardless of the length of time required to train the individual in his requested military occupation specialty (MOS). The program in effect provided for variable periods of Ready Reserve and total obligation based upon the individual's age upon enlistment, age upon entry on initial period of active duty for training, and certain other factors. An individual's total Reserve obligation could be either 6 or 8 years and his Ready Reserve obligation could vary from 3½ years to 8 years.

Effective 11 August 1963, the National Guard Bureau implemented the Reserve Enlistment Program 1963. The new program provided a standard six year Ready Reserve and total Reserve obligation for all enlistees of the ages 17 through 25, inclusive. The program authorized a variable period of initial active duty from four months to that period which is required to properly qualify the individual in the designated MOS. The authorized delay from entry on the initial period of active duty for training remains the same.

Previously, non-prior service personnel were tested with the Army Classification Battery Test after arrival at the Active Duty Training station. The results of these tests revealed that a number of individuals were either not qualified for training or were not qualified for training in the particular MOS requested. This resulted in a number of individuals being trained in MOSs other than those requested. In an effort to correct this situation, in March 1963 non-prior service personnel were required to be tested with the Army Qualification Battery Test prior to entry in the initial active duty for training. This enabled the unit commander to determine the MOS which the individual would be qualified for training and to request training only in an MOS for which the individual was qualified. Individuals tested prior to entry on active duty did not begin completing active duty for training until after 1 July 1963. The analysis of training received as compared with training requested as contained in Part III, Appendix XIII, shows that individuals trained in the first requested MOS increased 1.3% during the first year after the AQB Testing at home station was instigated. In most instances, individuals awarded an MOS other than one of the three requested were actually trained in an MOS related to one of their requested MOSs. Only a small percentage of the individuals trained received formal school training. The majority are trained by the apprentice or on-the-job training method. A continuing effort is being made by this Headquarters, the Army Commander, the Continental Army Command Commander, and the Chief, National Guard Bureau to improve training received, and to insure a larger percentage of individuals trained in their first requested MOS.

During fiscal year 1963 quotas received for entry into active duty for training almost doubled those of preceding years. Enlistment of non-prior service personnel did not keep pace with quotas allocated for entry into training. Consequently about one-half of the quotas received were utilized. Input quotas assigned for fiscal year 1964 were 1,460 as compared with 2,034 for fiscal year 1963. An increase in enlistment of non-prior service personnel resulted in 1,363 actually entering training during fiscal year 1964. The 2,403 entering the initial period of active duty for training during fiscal year 1963 and 1964 compares favorably with the 2,428 entering the preceding two year period.

Statistical data relative to the initial active duty for training program is contained in Appendix XIII.

SCHOOL PROGRAM

During the biennium, 398 officers and warrant officers and 466 enlisted men participated in the School Program. Supported mainly from Federal funds, the School Program provides specialized and advanced training of both officer and enlisted personnel in the combat arms, technical and administrative fields, and together with the Florida Army National Guard Officer Candidate School, provides the source of newly commissioned officer personnel.

The Army Service School and Army Area School programs provide those courses necessary to further the branch and technical training of personnel to qualify them for their TOE assignments, and for training in critical MOSs. Additional training in the areas of combat arms and technical skills is obtained through participation in Special Training Conferences and Special Army Exercises.

School Program enrollment and participation in Specialized Training Conferences and Exercises during the period 1963-1964 are outlined in Appendix XIV.

FEDERAL FUNDS AND EQUIPMENT

Federal support of the Florida Army National Guard has constantly increased since World War II, Korea, and the Berlin Crisis. This support is provided the citizen soldier, a most vital link in the defense of the United States, in order that he may perform his mission in the most effective manner. The support furnished is in the form of funds, equipment, and supplies.

During fiscal years 1963 and 1964 Federal funds expended in direct support of the Florida Army National Guard totaled $13,002,320.00. At the close of the biennium, the value of this Federal equipment and supplies on hand in the State totaled $20,032,833.00.

In order to insure the maximum efficient utilization of Federal funds, property, and supplies required to equip and train the Florida Army National Guard, the Federal government supports 304 Army National Guard technicians. These technicians, representing about 4.73% of the overall strength of the Army National Guard, are employed on a full-time basis.

During the biennium procedures used in accounting for Federal funds and property have been streamlined and brought more closely into line with those used by the active services. These more complex procedures permit more efficient management for the Adjutant General. Under these procedures, a number of records and reports are now handled by automatic data processing systems. Requisitioning of property and supplies from Federal supply agencies is accomplished by IBM punch cards. Plans call for complete management of Federal funds, property, and supplies by means of automatic data processing equipment prior to fiscal year 1966.

Many of the repair parts, operating supplies, housekeeping supplies and services required in the day-to-day operation of the Florida National Guard are purchased within the State. The value of these items for the biennium totaled approximately $344,940.00.

Payrolls in direct support of the Florida Army National Guard have an appreciable impact on the economy of the State. During fiscal years 1963 and 1964, pay for full-time technicians and the several thousand members of the Florida Army National Guard along with that of Army Advisors totaled $11,158,251.00. National Guardsmen receive base pay for a maximum of 48 Army drills each year, along with pay and allowances for Annual Field Training, and pay and allowances during short tours of active duty or while attending Army Service Schools.

MAINTENANCE OF FEDERAL PROPERTY

The nerve center of our maintenance program is at Camp Blanding. The Combined Support Maintenance Shop, at Camp Blanding, supports all Army equipment except Army aircraft, with maintenance requirements beyond the capabilities of units. The Army Aircraft Maintenance Shop is located at Imeson Airport, Jacksonville, with a small sub-shop at Tampa International Airport, Tampa. The shop facilities at Camp Blanding and Jacksonville were constructed wholly with Federal funds. The sub-shop in Tampa is on lease from a private concern.

User and unit maintenance of equipment, other than aircraft, is accomplished as a part of military training within the organization. To assist the commanders in this, there are 16 strategically located Organizational Maintenance Shops, manned with full-time technicians, and equipped with tools, spare parts and supplies. The aircraft shops perform both unit and support maintenance on assigned aircraft.

Safety of personnel receives continuous emphasis. In the Support Maintenance activities (Combined Support Maintenance Shop and Army Aviation Maintenance Shop) a total of 3 man-days were lost during the biennium due to accidents. This represents .00009% of total man-days available. In the 16 Organizational Maintenance Shops, 46 man-days were lost, representing .00019% of available man-days.

During the period, the Combined Support Maintenance Shop at Camp Blanding was improved by doubling secure storage area, adding one paint bay, and installing four overhead doors. This was supported wholly from Federal funds at a cost of $21,210.00.

Even though only the best qualified personnel are employed, all technicians are encouraged to attend Service Schools and manufacturer's courses of instruction. This is necessary to maintain the more complex equipment entering the Army inventory. During the reporting period, a total of 25 man-months were utilized in this manner.

The support mission of the Combined Support Maintenance Shop and Army Aviation Maintenance Shop requires visits away from the main base of operation to inspect and repair equipment, and to furnish technical assistance. A total of 2731 man-days were used for this purpose. Also during the biennium, a Maintenance Cross-Service Agreement with Headquarters, United States Strike Command, MacDill Air Force Base, Tampa, was entered into on their request. A total of 455 man-days travel were used in support of this mission.

The Support Maintenance Operation has received 10 Superior ratings out of the last 13 years. The award is based on ratings for the annual Inspector General inspection conducted by Headquarters, Third United States Army.

Recapitulation of support maintenance operations and activities, and Organizational Maintenance Shops will be found in Appendices XVII & XVIII.

AIR NATIONAL GUARD

AIR BASE

During the biennium, approximately $1,100,000.00 in Federal funds have been expended on improvements and additions to existing facilities. These improvements and additions include: Runway extension and rehabilitation, BAK-9 aircraft arresting system, blast pads, taxiways, runway lighting system, and modifications to warehouse and POL facilities.

GENERAL

The years 1963-1964 have been devoted primarily to attaining the maximum proficiency of every individual in the Florida Air National Guard. The mission, both State and Federal, has remained unchanged.

Manning of the ANG has fluctuated from an all-out recruiting campaign at one time, to a restriction on manning levels at another.

AIR DEFENSE COMMAND ALERT PROGRAM

The Florida Air National Guard has continued to fulfill its ADC alert commitment in an exemplary manner. On 1 July 1964, the number of active duty pilot positions for this alert was increased from nine to eleven per day. Since that date, three aircraft are manned constantly on a five-minute alert status.

STRENGTH

The Air National Guard was authorized an overall pay drill strength of 75,000 for Fiscal Years 1963 and 1964. The Florida Air National Guard was allotted a Unit Manning Document strength of 1047, which was changed on 1 July 1964 to 1016 with the reorganization of existing units under the "Double Deputy Concept." The pay drill strength was limited to approximately 77% of the Unit Manning Document strength. The actual strength of the Florida Air National Guard remained at approximately 77% of UMD strength with only minor variations. For summary of strength see Appendix VII.

ORGANIZATION

Effective 15 July 1963, the units of the Florida Air National Guard underwent a realignment, with no change in gaining command, station or mission. This realignment resulted in a change in authorized strength of officers from 108 to 110, and airmen from 893 to 937.

Then on 1 July 1964, the Florida Air National Guard was reorganized under the "Double Deputy Concept" of organization. This type of organization gives the group commander two deputy commanders who are directly responsible to him. The Deputy for Operations has the responsibility for operations and training while the Deputy for Materiel has the responsibility for maintenance and supply.

With the 1 July 1964 reorganization, the 125th Air Base Sq (AD) was redesignated the 125th Combat Support Sq (AD). The 125th Materiel Sq (AD) was inactivated and the 125th Supply Sq (AD) was activated. Present organization status see Appendix IV.

SCHOOL TRAINING

During the biennium, the National Guard Bureau policy concerning enlistment of non-prior service personnel was changed in that all enlistees are now required to complete a minimum of four months active duty subsequent to enlistment. This training may consist of USAF Basic Military Training with on-the-job training at home station or BMT with subsequent entry into a technical school and OJT at home station to complete four months if the BMT and technical school does not total four months. School training is conducted at schools of the regular service.

Enlistment of non-prior service airmen is controlled by the allocation of spaces from the National Guard Bureau. These spaces are allocated on a semi-annual basis, and for the most part, spaces allotted are insufficient to meet the needs of the Florida ANG. However, until Congress includes sufficient funds in the annual budget to increase these spaces, the ANG must make the best of this situation. For additional information pertaining to schools see Appendix XIV.

UNIT TRAINING

Unit training is conducted in accordance with training directives and regulations published by the National Guard Bureau, Headquarters, United States Air Force, and Air Defense Command, and consists primarily of on-the-job training. The OJT program progressed at a very satisfactory rate in 1963 with 73.3% of all personnel who were administered the Specialty Knowledge Test for their specialty qualifying. The qualifying rate for 1964 is a very high 85.5%. In addition to the year-round field training program and the continual emphasis on OJT from all levels of command, there are two additional factors which contribute materially to the success of our OJT program.

The first factor is the use of a highly qualified Air Force instructor to annually conduct classes for the OJT administrator-supervisors and for OJT trainers. These classes give all personnel involved in the training program the approved and proper methods for establishing and conducting a good OJT program. In the three years that the Florida Air National Guard has utilized these instructors, practically every OJT supervisor and trainer in the units has attended one of these classes.

The second contributing factor to our highly successful program is the adoption in 1963 by the Air Force and the Air National Guard of a new concept in on-the-job training. This concept consists of two parts, career development and job proficiency development.

Career Development: Career development is the acquiring of general background knowledge required for understanding military and career area functions. In this part, airmen study the general Air Force subjects and the broad specialty theory and fundamentals concerned with the Air Force Specialty of assignment. They attain these knowledges by self-study using specially designed career development courses. Initially, these career development courses have been ECI courses that have been converted over to the new concept. An airman must satisfactorily complete a specialty knowledge test upon completion of the career development course.

Job Proficiency: Airmen attain job proficiency by demonstrating background and career area knowledge and performing tasks associated with specific job assignments. This training essentially embodies the principle of learning while doing, under the guidance of an experienced person. Job Proficiency Guides formulate the specific task requirements, identify the required study references, establish the degree of performance to be attained, and indicate supervisory acknowledgement of satisfactory achievement of specific tasks or duties. Supervisors certify to job proficiency.

When a career development course has been developed for a career field, it is the only study reference required for an Air Force Specialty. With the specialty knowledge test based solely on the knowledge contained in these courses, plus the end-of-volume tests as an aid to assure the trainee that he has covered all the essential material in the text, and with these copies of the tests in his possession, he normally will have no problem in obtaining a qualifying score on the SKT.

FIELD TRAINING

The year-round or "Texas Plan" of field training has proven to be quite successful with the Florida Air National Guard in both 1963 and 1964. This plan allows for personnel to be called out in small increments throughout the year to provide additional manpower during peak workloads, special exercises, etc. This plan allows more individual attention to be given to the training of airmen, and also provides more flexibility to the airmen in giving them more or less of a choice when they will be scheduled to attend field training. Requests for excusals from field training are rare under this program.

In 1963, personnel from the Food Service Section conducted field training at Patrick AFB, Fla. and in 1964 it was conducted at Hunter AFB, Ga. An adequate training program was provided at both bases.

Field training for the Air Police Section was coordinated with the Provost Marshal's Office at Orlando AFB, Fla. in both 1963 and 1964. A very fine program was conducted for the airmen both years which included four hours of classroom sessions and four hours on-the-job-training.

Training for 125th USAF Dispensary was coordinated with USAF Hospital at MacDill AFB, Fla. in 1963 and with the USAF Hospital at Orlando AFB, Fla. in 1964. These two facilities can provide training to our personnel that they cannot obtain at the ANG base.

In 1964, personnel from the Communications Section received valuable training with the 1926th Communications Squadron at Robins AFB, Ga. However, this training was hampered due to inadequate security clearances of our personnel for access to all areas of the facility visited.

FEDERAL FUNDS AND EQUIPMENT

The mission of the Florida Air National Guard is such that it must be operationally ready for combat at all times. To insure the maximum in readiness, the Federal government funds and equips the Florida Air National Guard on a level closely paralleling the active Air Force. An average of 207 full time Federally supported technicians are employed at the Air National Guard Base in Jacksonville. These technicians, representing about 25% of the over-all strength of the Florida Air National Guard, are specialists in the fields of command, administration, finance, accounting, supply, and maintenance.

During fiscal years 1963 and 1964, Federal funds in the amount of $5,565,793.00 were expended in support of the Florida Air National Guard. This represents an increase of $917,287.00 over expenditures for the previous two fiscal years. The value of military equipment in use has increased by $1,145,836.00 to $32,072,100.00.

The F102A aircraft, with which the Florida Air National Guard is currently equipped, is an expensive weapon to operate. Cash purchases of supplies and services in the Jacksonville area in support of this aircraft during fiscal years 1963 and 1964 totalling $25,604.00; while purchase orders and delivery orders on local business concerns totalled $108,834.00. Local transportation companies received $25,371.00 for movement of materiel from Jacksonville to various points in the nation. Cross Service Agreements with other military activities in the Jacksonville area resulted in services to the Florida Air National Guard valued at $14,654.00. Not to be ignored was the new construction and improvements to existing facilities in the amount of $204,485.00. The Federal funds paid to Florida business concerns, coupled with the $4,144,116.00 paid in salaries during this period, represents an industry of considerable value to the State of Florida and its citizens.

The warehouse inventory leveled at $2,107,661.00 while the average volume of issues of parts and equipment was $374,474.00 per month. These two figures indicate an efficient inventory control system that is well within the limits prescribed by the active Air Force. The aircraft fuels section issued fuel and petroleum products during this period that were valued at $668,278.00.

As in the past, several major changes took place in the supply system of the Federal government that directly affected the Florida Air National Guard. The most important of these changes which affected both the base supply and the BEMO (Base Equipment Management Office) was the conversion to the PCAM (Punch Card Accounting Machine) system from the manual system. This, of course, was another step in keeping the Air National Guard compatible with the Air Force.

A recapitulation of Federal support to the Florida Air National Guard will be found in Appendix XVI.

ADVISORS

Officers and non-commissioned officers of the U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force are assigned to support the units of the Florida National Guard.

The mission of the Army and Air Advisors is to further the efficiency of the units to which assigned by providing appropriate assistance and advice to National Guard commanders and staffs.

ARMY

During the reporting period, Department of the Army continued to furnish officers and enlisted men of the Active Army to serve as advisors to the Florida Army National Guard. Assigned to the United States Army Advisory Group (Florida), these officers and men are commanded by the Senior Army Advisor, whose headquarters is in the State Arsenal at St. Augustine. Advisors are assigned at battalion headquarters level and to each higher headquarters. They work with all organic and attached units of the headquarters for which they have advisory responsibility. Their primary missions are to advise and to assist with training, implementation of plans and directives, and maintenance and security of United States government property.

The Advisory Group headquarters is staffed by three officers and seven enlisted men, who assist the Senior Army Advisor in his responsibility for supervision of the advisor effort throughout the state and as military advisor to the Adjutant General. Until April 1964, a male administrative warrant officer served as administrative officer. Through the efforts of the Adjutant General of Florida and the Senior Army Advisor, this position was changed to a space for a captain of the Women's Army Corps. In late April 1964, a major of the WAC, Virginia L. Piggott, reported for duty to occupy this administrative position, and became the first member of her Corps to serve with a National Guard Advisory Group.

There are seventeen advisor stations within the state, with an authorized strength of 18 officers and 29 enlisted men at the end of 1964. Army Advisors who served with Florida Army National Guard during this period are shown in the Directory.

AIR

During the reporting period the Department of the Air Force provided an officer as Air Advisor and a non-commissioned officer as Personnel Advisor to the Florida Air National Guard. Since only one officer is provided he serves in the dual capacity of Senior Advisor and Unit Advisor with office at Headquarters, 125th Fighter Group, Imeson Municipal Airport, Jacksonville, Florida.

The Advisor Unit serves as a USAF Test Control Center and administers all standard Air Force skill level tests for upgrading, AFOQT and pilot qualifying tests, Airman's Classification Test, for entry into the Air National Guard, and weapons handling and loading tests. It maintains administrative control over newly enlisted airmen who are satisfying their four month active duty requirements.

The Air Advisor, a regular Air Force Lt. Colonel, provides tactical, personnel, and technical advice as required and desired. In addition, he lectures recruits on Air Force organization.

The Personnel Advisor, a regular Air Force Senior Master Sergeant assists and advises in the administrative and personnel program of the 125th Fighter Group. He also lectures to recruits as requested.

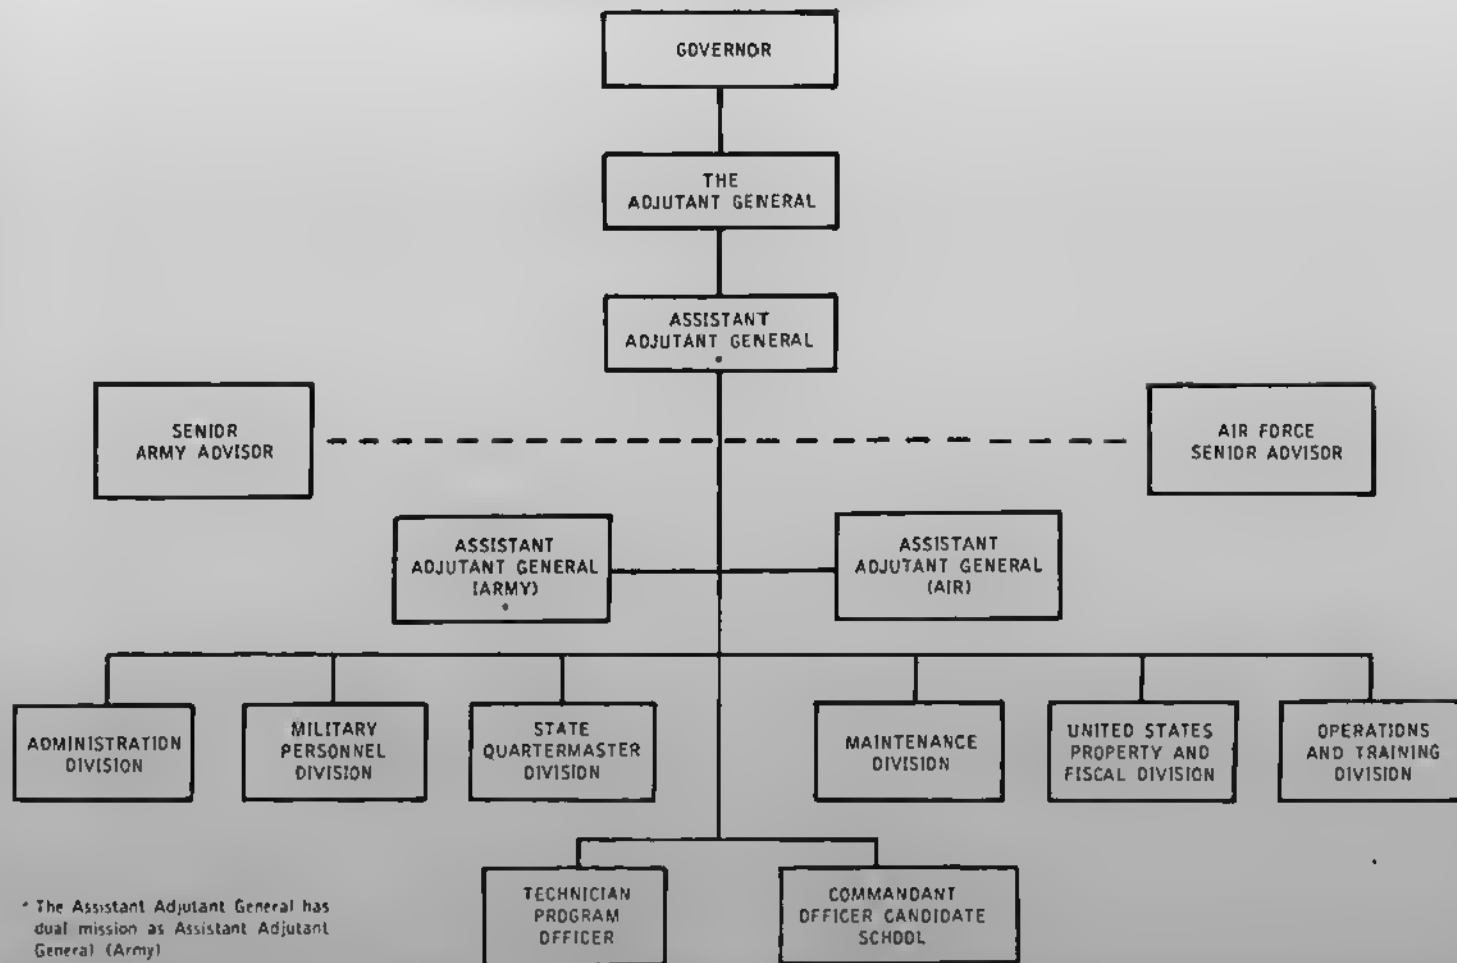

NATIONAL GUARD OFFICERS ASSOCIATION OF FLORIDA

The National Guard Officers Association of Florida has been in existence since 1902. It consists of all officers and warrant officers of the Florida Army and Air National Guard. The organization is run on a democratic basis, with the officers elected by the membership. Committee meetings are held periodically during the year, and a general conference is convened annually at some location within the State. The purpose of the organization is the discussion and promulgation of legislation, both State and National; the advancement of the professional status of the National Guard; and for the widening of acquaintance among the officers and wives of the various commands in the State. The annual conferences consist of business sessions during the day with the social functions in the evening.

This Association has 100% membership of all active National Guard officers and warrant officers. Even though members attend the annual conferences at their own expense, attendance continues to average in excess of 50% at these conferences. During the biennium, the 61st annual conference was held at the Hawaiian Village Motel, Tampa, and the 62nd annual conference was held at the Diplomat Hotel, Hollywood, Florida. (See Appendix XIX)

I am the Guard

Civilian in Peace, Soldier in War... of security and honor, for three centuries I have been the custodian, I am the Guard.

I was with Washington in the dim forests, fought the wily warrior, and watched the dark night bow to the morning. At Concord's bridge, I fired the fateful shot heard 'round the world. I bled on Bunker Hill. My footprints marked the snows of Valley Forge. I pulled a muffled oar on the barge that bridged the icy Delaware. I stood with Washington on the sun-drenched heights of Yorktown. I saw the sword surrendered... I am the Guard. I pulled the trigger that loosed the long rifle's havoc at New Orleans. These things I know—I was there! I saw both sides of the War between the States—I was there! The hill at San Juan felt the fury of my charge. The far plains and mountains of the Philippines echoed to my shout... On the Mexican border I stood... I am the Guard. The dark forest of the Argonne blazed with my barrage. Chateau Thierry crumbled to my cannonade. Under the arches of victory I marched in legion—I was there! I am the Guard. I bowed briefly on the grim Corregidor, then saw the light of liberation shine on the faces of my comrades. Through the jungle and on the beaches, I fought the enemy, beat, battered and broke him. I raised our banner to the serene air on Okinawa—I scrambled over Normandy's beaches—I was there!... I am the Guard. Across the 38th Parallel I made my stand. I flew MIG Alley—I was there!... I am the Guard.

Soldier in war, civilian in peace... I am the Guard.

I was at Johnstown, where the raging waters boomed down the valley. I cradled the crying child in my arms and saw the terror leave her eyes. I moved through smoke and flame at Texas City. The stricken knew the comfort of my skill. I dropped the food that fed the starving beast on the frozen fields of the west and through the towering drifts I ploughed to rescue the marooned. I have faced forward to the tornado, the typhoon, and the horror of the hurricane and flood—these things I know—I was there!... I am the Guard. I have brought a more abundant, a fuller, a finer life to our youth. Wherever a strong arm and valiant spirit must defend the Nation, in peace or war, wherever a child cries, or a woman weeps in time of disaster, there I stand... I am the Guard. For three centuries a soldier in war, a civilian in peace—of security and honor, I am the custodian, now and forever... I am the Guard.
